About This Game

Tiles is a fast-paced action puzzle game that will both convolute your mind and burn your finger tips!

It's simple, get from the green tile to the red whilst clearing the blue tiles in between. Consider your moves carefully though as you might regret them later. Oh, and do it fast because the very ground beneath you is falling!

You can also build your own challenges using the fully featured level editor. Every level created for the game was in fact created with the in game editor.

This is where things get really fun, you can publish your creations and share them with the world! Every player created level has the ability for players to upvote, favorite, and rate the difficulty of the level.

- 90 increasingly difficult built-in levels
- Fully featured level editor
- Player created levels world
- Full gamepad support
- Local multiplayer
- Original music

Very addicting definitely worth more than 1 dollar!. Such a beautiful game totally ruined by a dirt port to Mac. Can't speak about the optimisation as there is none. Making the machine hot like some 3D render. Oh well.... my worst early access experience ever, it keeps crashing.. Not really my thing, but it was cheap in a Humble Bundle with other games I wanted so no true loss. If you like puzzles you may like this one.. This game is incredibly fun and you can do so much with it, Only thing I have against it is in the new update it crashes alot for me. Other than that 10/10 Reccomend it for someone who likes cars and lego destruction.. First 20 levels : Lots of interesting tools and tactics as I walk through how to play. Nothing is out of reach.

Second 20 levels : Getting harder. I have to replay multiple times and review hints. It all starts to seem forced, like it's exclusively a puzzle game instead of changing a planet for humanity.

Level 47 - first of the 4th year of university. Full stop. No matter what I do, I can't solve the level, to say nothing of attaining the "gold star" that they introduce. Next level is no better. So, I'm stuck, and done.

I'd call this more of a hard core puzzle game. I play very few of these types, and this one lost me before the "real game" even began.

Great combat system, nice graphics, open ended, unlimited potential. I look forward where this game could go, in particular, additional character models, portraits and monsters/enemies, plus battlefield locations. I was surprised to see an actual dungeon location in the Black Knight scenario. The longer I play, the better this game gets. What a pleasant surprise. So far, very good. Yes, I encountered some bugs that required a restart.. Better than 76, worse than NV..

Anoxemia very much reminds me of a very good flash game, and that is not an insult, while it has simple and engaging, gameplay and a fantastic silhouette based artstyle it feels very much like a html5 or flash-based game and not a pc game, apart from the aforementioned gameplay the gorgeously haunting music and solid voice acting sets this game apart from many other indie games who fill the same "kill a few mins" niche, a fantastic little indie title and one i would like to see more of.

This mini review is part of "10 more indie games you may never play in 2019."
<https://bluntlyhonest.review/2019/04/22/10-more-indie-games-you-may-never-play-in-2019/>. I'll get this out of the way. If you are into games that is: Live -> Die -> Retry, to get that better score. This might be a game for you!

For me it's a lot of fun also with friends, & very addicting. When I bought this game, I was a bit choked how fun it could be, even more fun when I played with my friends, & they even got addicted to the game.

Well here is some pros & cons about this game.

Pros:

- addicting
- Very Fun
- Friend/Family friendly
- Up to 4 players
- Fun game modes

Cons:

- Can get boring if you only play this game
- Very bad sound track / music
- The exit code atleast for me aint working. So it takes some time for me to close it! (around 20 sec). What's not to love? Free and with loads of secrets to discover. One of the most immersive experiences I've had.. Game is Very Nice and simplistic but still has a challenge. Thanks humble sale for letting me notice this great game.

So sad it has just 13 reviews

I'll add one right now and update it later. I already love it

You definitely need to put some effort into advertising.

doing the "local coop" stuff in singleplayer [cause no friends] is kinda painful.. Creepy, intense, and chilling. A simplistic horror game that will have you jumping in your seat. The concept of using sound as a visual aid is amazing. Definitely recommend to everyone! 10/10. Wanting a bit more of a universe as catchy, beautiful and exciting as To The Moon's is natural, its story is so well written that it is impossible not to dive headlong and get glazed in history. Making a minisode of the doctors was an excellent choice to better understand the company's functioning, the relationships of the characters and what that universe is like outside of the house and mind of Johnny Wyles, a more open and comprehensive story that has characteristics of the main game.. Most immersive game I have ever played. Fantastic graphics, mechanics, and beautifully designed game.
